

The lovely seaside town of Oban sits on the west coast of Scotland in the old lands of Clan MacDougall. Pictured here is the Esplanade, the road running along the shore which passes the nearby entrance to Dunollie castle off to the left of this photo. To the right the road leads to the nearby downtown area, the Train Station, and the Ferry Terminal for the ships to the islands.