

Machermore Castle on the east bank of the River Cree, 1 ½ miles (2 km) southeast of Newton Stewart in Kirkcudbrightshire, Galloway, Scotland. Now a seniors home, parts of the structure date back to at least the 11th century. Tradition says a kettle full of gold is buried under a flat rock between the castle and the River Cree.